Dancing the night away

While most of Holy Cross was still asleep this past Saturday morning, the Ballroom Dance team was practicing on silver heels and dancing tuxedos for the H.C.-hosted third New England College Dance Competition. With alarms set for 6 a.m., just before most of the club's executives were called to their respective Ballroom by 7, awaiting D J.'s, hanging up signs, or doing last minute furniture set up. The team is co-chaired by juniors Shane Murray and Amy Vashlishan, and coached by Pat Connolly and Gary Jacobik.

The executive board is additionally comprised of vice president Jennifer McGrath, Gerry Benedicto, Ingrid Scharf, who at first thought them- selves to be a group of older women. But now, with the new meal plan, they can complain and resent it.

administration's Crossroads plan is so deviously ingenious. They have increased the level of fragmentation among students in order to set us against one another, to endlessly quibble over the merits of the Upper entree and needlessly fight over whether we will have, for example, what they call 'Yankee Pot Roast,' or if we will subject ourselves to the ridiculous overpricing of their 'Food Court' – which is neither food nor court! Some 'food,' I say, as it varies in quality – or lack thereof. Some 'court,' I say, for where is the freedom in only $5 of equivalency? Where is our real court! Some 'food,' I say, as it varies in quality – or lack thereof! Some 'court,' I say, for where is the freedom in only $5 of equivalency? Where is our real court!
