It was a typical, warm March morning in Santee, California as the hundreds of Santana High School students poured into the halls and made their way to class. Some laughed about their weekends, others moaned the standard Monday grumble about how they all walked along in the usual school routine. But this was not a typical day. At 9:22 am on March 5, 2001, aFreshman walked out of the front entrance, shot, and killed 9 people in the parking lot. For nearly an entire week, the community of Santee heal.

The first year of college is full of fears, doubts, and challenges. The International Scholar and Student Advisor Prof. Esther L. Levine must realize that they are only quiet, they are not to be blamed for though these students did not make acknowledged an Ohio school shooting that occurred in 1974, long before the outburst of vividly blooming violence. What is more disturbing is the sensationalization that occurs in the news. The reporters do not need to do their homework, but rather is alive and well here at Holy Cross. I challenge both my students and everyone else to take responsibility for what we say and do to others. As one Santana student said, “The nation wants answers, and that it deserved, but violating the community of Santee heal. We have been taught the art of the silence of Race” encourages the college they can understand the value of Odyssey in the context of a truly sensi- me or even read the Program’s brochure, he would have learned that Odyssey is open to all ALANA and international students in the entering class, and that Odyssey promotes community through pride in ethnic, cul- tural, and religious diversity rather than through a focus on “minority” thinking. The first year of college is full of tears, doubts, and challenges. The Odyssey Program seeks to provide a support network to ALANA and in- The Crusader entitled “The Silence of Race” encouraged the college they can understand the value of Odyssey in the context of a truly sensi- to realize that persecution did not replication, but that does not mean other lies to heal is atrocious. How can needed by students and their fami- lies to deal with the issues and let the com- munity’s space is not necessary. Let’s deal with the issues and let the com- munity of Santee heal. That same weekend, the shooter interviewed alums from the pre-Odyssey days, he would have learned that Odyssey is open to all ALANA and international students in the entering class, and that Odyssey promotes community through pride in ethnic, cul- tural, and religious diversity rather than through a focus on “minority” thinking. The first year of college is full of tears, doubts, and challenges. The Odyssey Program seeks to provide a support network to ALANA and in- the Boston sports media. His act be- longs to the Herald.

The Crusader OPINIONS EDITOR

The Crusader OPINIONS EDITOR

*The pictures in Stein this week are designed to make us all feel bad for the Iraqis. I may just be a cold, heart- less, inhuman brat who doesn’t care about them, but I honestly don’t feel bad for them at all. I just hate Sad- dam a lot more now than I did last week. Allegedly, these deformed ba- bies are the fault of the U.S. nation’s and U.N. Allegedly it is the heartless sanctions imposed on the poor coun- try of Iraq that kills those babies. The U.N. and USA need to wake up and stop committing these atrocities against humanity. Wrong. It is the Iraqi government who are committing these atrocities and force a leader to power who will get along with the rest of the world. What is happening to the babies in Iraq is a tragedy, but it is no excuse to fault Saddam. He’s brought it on himself, and still brings today, the wrath of the world upon his country. Unfortunately, the Iraqis are likely never do the right thing and go down. Saddam is the inhuman criminal, the western world is simply protecting itself.

*Incidentally, if you ever need to fill 500 words in the opinions section, this is how to do it...until next week.

CRUSADER OPINIONS FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 2001

THE CRUSADER OPINIONS FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 2001

Emptying out the sock drawer of the sequel

BY TED GILDEA

CRUSADER OPINIONS EDITOR

Random thoughts while mourning the loss of No-Mah....

*Incidentally, if you ever need to fill 500 words in the opinions section, this is how to do it...until next week.

*The pictures in Stein this week are designed to make us all feel bad for the Iraqis. I may just be a cold, heart- less, inhuman brat who doesn’t care about them, but I honestly don’t feel bad for them at all. I just hate Sad- dam a lot more now than I did last week. Allegedly, these deformed ba- bies are the fault of the U.S. nation’s and U.N. Allegedly it is the heartless sanctions imposed on the poor coun- try of Iraq that kills those babies. The U.N. and USA need to wake up and stop committing these atrocities against humanity. Wrong. It is the Iraqi government who are committing these atrocities and force a leader to power who will get along with the rest of the world. What is happening to the babies in Iraq is a tragedy, but it is no excuse to fault Saddam. He’s brought it on himself, and still brings today, the wrath of the world upon his country. Unfortunately, the Iraqis are likely never do the right thing and go down. Saddam is the inhuman criminal, the western world is simply protecting itself.

*Incidentally, if you ever need to fill 500 words in the opinions section, this is how to do it...until next week.

CRUSADER OPINIONS FRIDAY, MARCH 30, 2001

Emptying out the sock drawer of the sequel

BY TED GILDEA

CRUSADER OPINIONS EDITOR

Random thoughts while mourning the loss of No-Mah....

*Incidentally, if you ever need to fill 500 words in the opinions section, this is how to do it...until next week.

*The pictures in Stein this week are designed to make us all feel bad for the Iraqis. I may just be a cold, heart- less, inhuman brat who doesn’t care about them, but I honestly don’t feel bad for them at all. I just hate Sad- dam a lot more now than I did last week. Allegedly, these deformed ba- bies are the fault of the U.S. nation’s and U.N. Allegedly it is the heartless sanctions imposed on the poor coun- try of Iraq that kills those babies. The U.N. and USA need to wake up and stop committing these atrocities against humanity. Wrong. It is the Iraqi government who are committing these atrocities and force a leader to power who will get along with the rest of the world. What is happening to the babies in Iraq is a tragedy, but it is no excuse to fault Saddam. He’s brought it on himself, and still brings today, the wrath of the world upon his country. Unfortunately, the Iraqis are likely never do the right thing and go down. Saddam is the inhuman criminal, the western world is simply protecting itself.

*Incidentally, if you ever need to fill 500 words in the opinions section, this is how to do it...until next week.